Sunrise between Incheon Airport and Seoul

High rise apartments/condos in Seoul

Seoul traffic on the way in from the airport

More high rises in Seoul

A tourist area in Seoul called Insa Dong

Sprawling South Gate Market in Seoul

The old South Gate to Seoul

Downtown Seoul from a restaurant on the top of a 33 story office building, the Seoul Tower is in the background.

Unmarked trucks hauling rice to NK.
There were more than 50 such trucks with no markings so that the NK people could not tell where the rice was coming from.

CC4 Theater. Ken will recognize this one.

4/7 Trooper at the gate of what I think was Camp Pelham in the 60's.

Aves in front of the CC4 theater

CC4 guard shack. It is almost in the same place as it was in 1964

Sonju Ri between CC4 and Camp Garry Owen

This is a small road near Imjim Ni and runs around the back of Camp MacKenzie and into Unchon Ni.

This is part of the village of Unchon Ni

Last Chance is on the way to Freedom Bridge and is the place where we used to go to drink beer. The jeep would be parked in the garage behind so the MP's would not know we were there.

This is in a position looking north/north east toward the Imjim River. It is on the ridge line on the road that runs from Last Chance in an easterly direction.

This is the same position showing the tires used to reinforce the walls of the cutout

This is a bunker just to the left of the position shown in the last picture.

This is an enlargement of the field of fire image. The characters on the image are Korean so I'm guessing the ROK used or uses these positions.

These fox hole/bunkers are on the lower ridge and face the river to the north. There are a lot of these positions in this area and have the appearance of being used.

Fox hole/bunker entrance, same place

Trench line, same place

More trench line, same place

Rock drop between Last Chance and Imjim River

A tank emplacement in the same general area

Last Chance looking west coming back from the ridge line.

This is the front gate to the old Camp Mackenzie where I served. It was obviously a ROK army facility as we couldn't get near it. I believe this compound was turned over to the ROK in 1972.

The new Munsan train station

More of beautiful downtown Sonju Ri

I think this is Mickey Mouse corner in Powbon Ni

Again, I think this is MM corner in Pobwon Ni

Sign at front of Camp Red Cloud, 2ID HQ in Uijonbu.

From Imjingak, looking northwest toward the Imjim River with Freedom Bridge in the background. The motor coaches are the commercial tours that run every day from Seoul.

War memorial in the same area

Another war memorial in the same area

This is a better picture of Freedom Bridge which is not open to vehicle traffic as there is a new multi lane bridge a mile or so east.

If you were to do an about face from the previous picture, you would see these tourist facilities. The large building houses a restaurant and gift shops.

The amusement park is just to the east of the large building in the previous picture.

Aves in the parking lot near the entrance to the Joint Security Area (JSA).

Part of Camp Bonifas

Inside the Z, looking toward the NK Propaganda Village

ROK troop standing guard near the MDL

Aves and ROK troop inside the conference building. The ROK troop is at a modified parade rest position called "ROK Ready". The ROK troops are chosen for their above average size and when standing in this position, they are very intimidating.

The MDL runs down the center of this table.

The large building is the NK tour center. The NK guards are only present during NK tour group visits. There is a third floor on the building that was added when the NK's discovered that the building on the south side of the line was taller than theirs. If you look carefully, you will see a NK guard slightly to the left and above the green tree on the steps. He is standing in one of the arches.

The low building in the front is the rest area for the NK troops and other NK delegations.

The larger, taller building is a NK guard tower and they kept looking at us through the curtains. We were advised not to make any gestures toward them.

My, how things have changed...

Looking from Guard post 5, Guard post 3 is in the distance at the foot of the "Bridge of No Return".

The bare spot slightly to the left and between the trees is the site of the Ax Murder incident. There is a monument to the fallen troopers at that site.

From Guard post 5, you can see the Military Demarcation Line (MDL) marker on the tree line. You can also see the white MDL markers set 10 meters apart, marking the line.

This is Guard post 3 which sits at the foot of the "Bridge of No Return". GP3 is now unoccupied since the tree was cut down
